Introduction to life in Roman Britain

A special activity event

Monday 28th September -
Friday 2nd October 2020

Charge: £3 per child (teachers and helpers free).

Duration: 2 hours. Minimum number of pupils 25 and maximum 30. Sessions at 10am & 12.45pm.

AD43 The Celts & Roman Invasion

Two children dress up as Celts. The Roman Invasion of AD43 and defeat of the Celts. A Roman soldier's armour and weapons (with adult replica items). Six children dress up as Roman soldiers and drill, with military 'diplomas' awarded. Settling in : a new capital city, towns, roads and villas.

The Roman villa- house

An archaeologist describes the discovery of the site, excavations in 1988 and the villa house remains. Information is given on the tessellated floors, central heating (hypocaust) and concrete floors (opus signinum).

Design a Roman mosaic pattern

Unit staff briefly outline how the Romans made mosaics. Children then design a 'Roman' mosaic pattern with coloured tiles.

Life on the Roman Villa

Life on the farm and in the house is described with Roman artefacts and replica Roman domestic objects.

Handling & drawing Roman artefacts

Each child has a tray of Roman artefacts with identification and handling followed by labelling (drawings are taken back to school).

Roman Villa Activity Workshops

Charge: £3 per child (teachers and helpers free).

Duration: 2 hours. Minimum number of pupils 20 and maximum 60.

Tuesday and Wednesday: 10am or 12.45pm

Workshops: consist of two talks, each followed by activities. See details below:

The Roman Villa House

An archaeologist describes the discovery and excavation of the villa and explains the remains of the house - its walls, roof, floors and hypocaust (central heating) as well as its end in c.AD410.

Life in the Roman Villa

A second session covers life on the farm and in the house with Roman artefacts and replica Roman domestic objects including pottery and jewellery. Four children dress as Romans - as a little girl, a married lady, a farm boy and a senator.

Handling & drawing Roman artefacts

Each child has a 'finds' tray of Roman artefacts with identification and handling followed by labelling (drawings are taken back to school).

'Brass rubbing' activity

'Rubbing' of figures of Roman soldiers, Julius Caesar and gladiators (14cm high) with a brief written description about the figures and instructions from Unit staff (rubblings are taken back to school).

Mosaic making activity

Unit staff briefly outline how the Romans made mosaics, followed by mosaic making with individual trays, coloured 'tesserae' and Roman patterns to follow.

Please note : teachers and helpers are requested to help during the activity sessions. This is a very full 2 hour programme and late arrival may result in some of the activities having to be curtailed.
